

WEAVING LEARNING LANDSCAPES

Mark Leggott: Robertson Library

Weaving & Learning

Tapestries

present beautiful landscapes...

where each thread is unique...

in the context of the larger work.

One Thread

canonical in context...

is the key to creating rich
tapestries...

in the physical and the digital realm.

Seadragon

“Once text is digital, books seep out of their bindings and weave themselves together. The collective intelligence of a library allows us to see things we can't see in a single, isolated book.”

Web 2.0

Leveraging the Net as a framework to build Community and Knowledge, with Data as the Threads enabling Creation of durable services and resources Accessible to all systems and people, resulting in an ever-evolving and rich user-centric Tapestry.

Information Threads

- * 32 million books, 2 million currently digital
- * 750 million articles/essays
- * 25 million songs
- * 500 million images
- * 4 million videos/short films
- * 100 billion public websites
- * 200 petabytes all printed information

Threads and Looms

- * Threads are key to weaving learning landscapes
 - * Can be found in a range of Web resources
 - * Created with tools to fit different styles/needs
- * Looms can be found in a system like Moodle
 - * Standard system makes creation/support easier
 - * Focus on content and pedagogy, not software

Moodle Loom

Moodle

- * Default campus Learning Management System
- * Excellent open source, extensible system
- * Many standard modules (web, wiki, forums, grades)
- * Easy to incorporate existing material (.doc, .ppt, .html)
- * UPEI extending Moodle with custom blocks such as Library-specific blocks
